Open Class Llama Judge

Steve Auld, Garden City, Mo.

Steve Auld of Garden City, Mo. was first introduced to llamas in 1988 on his uncle's farm, Chuck Kraft Heartland (CKH) Llamas in northern Minnesota. Steve and his wife, Sandy, immediately fell in love with llamas and knew they someday would have their own. Three months after buying a rural property in 2006, Steve and Sandy brought home their starter llama herd: four classic females for the total price of $250. The Aulds involved both of their children, Talon and Aspen, in the lifestyle as well. Their herd is now 50+ strong and the Aulds attend between 8 and 13 shows each year. In 2013, Steve attended the ILR-SD judging clinic, but it took him another year to get his apprenticeship done. Steve became a certified ILR-SD judge in October 2014 and became a dual-certified judge by obtaining his ALSA certification in 2019. Today, Steve along with his wife and daughter, own and manage Aspen Rayne Ranch. Steve is an executive IT leader in the financial industry, develops websites for other llama farms and organizations and judges miniature, silky fainting goats for the MSFGA. He is also an accomplished actor and singer, as you will see that speaking in public is not a problem for him.

Special Awards

Standing Rock Llamas: Standing Rock Llamas (Beldenville and River Falls, Wis.) will award a plaque to the Junior Youth Performance Champion.

Prairie Doctor Farm: Prairie Doctor Farm (Ann Barkley of Marine on the Saint Croix, Minn.) will award a ribbon to the best in show at halter.
